Minden may soon have its own police officer

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The village of Minden may soon be home to a community-based police officer.

Last Thursday, OPP Staff Sergeant Bill Elliott met with members of Minden council and outlined a proposal to assign a police officer to provide services in the village.

The move would be an extension of the community policing program which already exists in Haliburton village, where OPP constable Ron Buchanan serves as the community-based officer.

The Minden officer would operate from an office in the village and would work with a police services committee, made up of local residents, to address crime related issues.

Elliott described the community-based policing philosophy as an "old style/new style" approach. The officer would operate much like the traditional beat cop but would take direction from the public via the police committee.

Representation on the committee would be drawn from across the community and could include someone from council, senior citizens, local business owners and young people, said Elliott.

The system began in Haliburton village almost a year ago as a pilot project. "I can tell you, as far as we're concerned, it's been a great success," said Elliott.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said there has been interest in community policy in Minden, particularly among members of the business community. "When it was first established, the BIA said 'Haliburton has it, we would like to see it in Minden'.

We were told it was a pilot project but could be explored later," he said.

"This is later," said Elliott.

One of the first steps in the process is to call a public meeting to explain community policing and to establish the police services committee. Berry suggested the BIA be contacted because of their interest in the issue.

It was agreed that Elliott and Buchanan will attend tonight's BIA meeting to present the proposal to the members.

Elliott said one of the requirements for community policing is that an office be provided, by Minden, for the officer to operate from. Although the OPP detachment is located in Minden on the highway, it would not be a good location for the community officer, he said.

"It would not be an ideal locale for a walk-in office," said Elliott. "People from the Main Street are not going to walk to the detachment."

The OPP has adopted community policing across the province as a way to increase public involvement in law enforcement. By having one officer responsible for the same community on a regular basis, the goal is to improve communications between the police and residents.

In some areas, this approach has resulted in a 70 per cent decrease in the crime rate.

Elliott said the officer would work out his schedule so he's on duty during the times when he is most required.

If all goes well, the officer could be in place by summer. "It's not something you do overnight," said Elliott. "It takes two or three months to set it up."

Outdoor smoking approved

by Susan Grober

The doors have been opened to allow smoking on school property outside of Haliburton County Board of Education buildings.

Last Tuesday, a slim majority of the school board voted to rescind the fourth part of its policy which prohibits smoking on board property.

Smoking will still be banned inside board buildings.

The vote was in response to a request made by elementary school teachers who wanted the right to smoke outside their schools. Some have been lighting up inside their cars, and still weren't sure if this was against board policy.

In December, the board changed policy to allow smoking in designated areas for high school students, because their safety was in danger as many were forced to walk in the path of school buses to smoke off of school property.

Trustees discussed a request by elementary school teachers to smoke on school property at the board's January meeting, but held off a decision until the high school teachers could have a say in the matter.

Business group asked to help

Representatives from the Minden OPP will meet with the Business Improvement Area (BIA) tonight to discuss the proposal for a community based officer in Minden village.

Last Thursday, Staff Sergeant Bill Elliott and Constable Ron Buchanan met with Minden council to discuss the proposal and it was suggested the officers should present the idea to the BIA.

Members of the business community have shown interest in having an officer based in the village since last year when a community policing pilot project was initiated in Haliburton village.

Councillor Lewis Stevens, who is the municipality's representative to the BIA, said the members are keen on the idea and have "looked at Haliburton with envy" since Buchanan was assigned to the village.

He said the BIA might be able to help find a location for a police office in the downtown core.

The BIA is meeting tonight (Monday) in the council chambers at 7:30 p.m. and Lewis is encouraging all members to attend.

Voice of the people not being heard

This week's column is written by Mary Anne Wilson. Mrs. Wilson has lived in Minden for the past 11 years and is currently serving as a trustee on the Haliburton County Board of Education. Originally from Orillia, she has lived in 16 locations across the province of Ontario.

by Mary Anne Wilson

The Canadian Government has established a committee to travel the nation and listen to Canadian people express their ideas about the present condition and the future of this country. Many of us are now taking a critical look at what it means to be Canadian, how our nation should be governed and what direction we should head.

In 1867 Canada came into being as a "Democratic Nation".

A democracy is a form of government in which the political power resides in all of the people and is exercised by them, perhaps through political representatives. It is also a system of social equality. (Funk and Wagnalls Dictionary, Canadian Edition).

A nation is a body of persons associated with a particular territory, organized under a government and possessing a distinctive culture and social way of life. (Funk and Wagnalls Dictionary, Canadian Edition).

If we examine Canada in 1991 it doesn't fit very well with this definition of a Democratic Nation.

Political Power is not held by the majority of our people. Our current Federal Government was elected to office with a good deal less than 50% of the popular vote. A Gallup poll released February 1991 tells us that only 16% of Canadians have confidence in the Federal Government. Therefore, we are currently being ruled by a party which has lost the support of the majority of the minority that put them in power.

Social Equality is in bad shape as well. Our financial policies give the rich advantages over the poor and middle class. Our taxation system provides tax shelters for those who can afford them. Charitable donations of cash are tax deductible while valuable donations of time, energy and blood receive only the occasional round of applause.

Government funding is pulled from rural Canada while urban areas soak up more tax dollars. Rural Canada is losing its rail service, its Post Offices and its dignity as more money is spent to deal with the social problems that arise in our cities which are growing out of control. Recent increased immigration policies bring large numbers of people into Canada, the majority of whom make their homes in our large cities. Even more tax dollars must be spent in urban areas to help deal with this influx of people. Even less money is left for rural Canada. Rural areas are becoming less attractive places to live and the gap of inequity widens.

Social problems which deal with symptoms rather than problems create other disparities in society. Government funded day-care is a prime example of this. Raising a family today is a very expensive proposition whether one or two incomes are available to the family. It is a struggle to feed, clothe, provide a home for and educate our children. Current government funded day-care supports single parents and two-income families while it penalizes families where one parent has chosen to remain in the home with the children. Does this country see no value in children being cared for by their own parent? I believe it would be a far better plan to allow reasonable tax deductions for dependents. Revenue Canada has fixed the maximum allowable amount for dependent children, 19 years or under, at $399.00 for 1991. Let's admit that raising children is expensive and address the problem. It's lunacy to pour tax money into the leaky bucket of social assistance and watch most of this money serve administration and bureaucracy with little left to fight the real fire. If Canada has a future as a nation it will be in the hands of our youth. If we as individuals have a future it will be at the mercy of our children.

More should be done to help young families as they endeavour to raise tomorrow's citizens. Mortgage interest payments for young families should be tax deductible. Today wealthy individuals lend mortgage money to home buyers under the table. The wealthy earn undeclared and untaxed income this way. If mortgage interest was tax deductible it would be in the borrower's favour to have their mortgage registered with the land title and would provide us with a system to record interest earned and collect tax on that interest. The current system provides opportunity for the wealthy at the expense of the low and middle class.

Provincial Pay Equity measures have helped females in the work place receive equal pay to that of their male co-workers where the value of the work is seen to be equal. Pay Equity ignores groups of male employees who are paid poorly in comparison to female employees who do work of similar value. Simply put, Anson, Hindon and Minden ambulance attendants would have the provincial government behind them as they bargain with our municipal council to be fairly paid only if more of them were female.

In an effort to have the Civil Services reflect the fabric of society, new Government employment practices favour minority groups. These discriminatory policies breed contempt rather than foster tolerance and understanding.

Our social way of life in Canada has radically changed at such a great speed that it is almost impossible to define. It's easier to examine the Canada in which we were raised and bear in mind that little of this remains true. Most Canadians raised their children in a family atmosphere. Education was provided equally for all children, this was the responsibility of the provinces. Today, provincial transfer payments to local boards have eroded to the point that the quality of education available to children depends largely upon the local tax base. Children used to be educated in a system which taught the Judeo-Christian ethics. Canadians enjoyed a common pause day now threatened by Sunday shopping. School aged children had July and August as vacation time. This time was spent with families and extended families or earning income for post secondary education. Often these jobs are in tourist related services and are only available during the summer. This summer holiday time is endangered today as some school boards in Ontario investigate year-round schooling as a way of coping with overcrowding and under-funding of the public school system. Seniors used to spend their retirement years doting over and making valuable contributions to the rearing of their grandchildren while they enjoyed the attentions and assistance of their adult children. Not anymore. Many seniors spend their retirement years in rest homes and seniors' complexes where their needs are met through government funding (another leaky bucket of tax dollars). The second generation is much too busy earning two necessary incomes, repairing two needed cars, filling out tax returns and picking their children up at the day-care centre to find much time for their parents. Regardless of whether these changes in our social way of life please or displease us as individuals, the point is we had very little input in these changes.

Where is our distinctive Canadian culture in 1991? Maple syrup production is threatened by acid rain, urban sprawl and the perils of a changing climate. Fur trading is very nearly history. A handful of bleeding heart animal rights activists armed with spray paint have intimidated people wearing fur coats. The Hudson's Bay Company no longer deals in fur. The RCMP uniform which was once a symbol of Canada is now somewhat flexible.

It would appear that all which remains in Canada in 1991 that fits with the definition of a "Democratic Nation" is that we do indeed know what territory we occupy.

Given our present predicament as a nation, it is little wonder that Quebec is considering washing its hands of the whole thing. Certainly, the future of Quebec should be decided by the Canadians, French English and otherwise, who live in Quebec.

We did not get into our present condition at the hands of any one political party. We cannot place the blame on any individual Prime Minister. It is the system which has failed us all. If democracy is to survive in Canada, it of course will most definitely be charted by the people of Canada. Surely we can make adjustments to this system and produce a true democratic government whose decisions reflect the opinions of the majority. Surely we can develop a society which makes us proud to be Canadians.

Decisions based on public input would find greater opportunity of compliance among Canadians. Government should view referendums as an opportunity to deal with extremely tough issues such as abortion, language issues and senate reform.

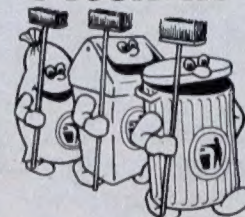

The current multi-party is an institution which impedes democracy in that it places powerless representatives in Government unable to vote in accordance with their own beliefs or as a reflection of their constituents. Give the people some control over their destiny and increased desire to contribute to society will follow.

The present three tier system of government, municipal, provincial and federal should serve us well. The Federal Government should have jurisdiction only over issues which affect us all (i.e. Foreign Affairs, defence, trade, immigration). The Provincial Government should control more regional issues (i.e. language, law enforcement, education, industry). The Municipalities should deal with our most local concerns (i.e. housing, public transit, roads, water and sewer, land development). All three levels should invite public input and be encouraged to hold referendums when radical change is being considered. I wonder if this kind of nation would be more attractive to the people of Quebec.

With Quebec considering separating from the rest of Canada, the Federal Government has formed the Spicer Commission to seek input from the people. This is the closest thing to true democracy that we have seen in our 123 years as a nation. The government is actually asking the people to speak. But, will they listen? If they hear only one thing it had better be that the Canadian people want to have their say. We have had far too many years of M.P.'s telling us what Ottawa has decided for us. We want our ideas presented to Ottawa. The Canadian people wish to take an active part in establishing goals for our future. Referendums should be held on major issues. These decisions should not be made to appease lobby groups and big businesses which do not reflect the opinions of the majority of Canadians.

If we reinstate social equality, have the Canadian people determine the social way of life they value and wish to protect, pare down on government spending and put the power back in the hands of the people we will once again take pride in our rich and diverse culture and heritages.

Elliott resigns from planning committee

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Dean Elliott has resigned as chairman of Minden's Planning Advisory Committee.

In a letter to committee secretary Elaine McCrea dated February 11, Elliott said that after nine years of involvement with the committee "it is now time that some other ratepayer be appointed by Council."

Elliott said the time is right to resign because of the decreased workload of the committee, allowing his replacement to "learn the ropes in an unpressured and relaxed atmosphere."

At Thursday's council meeting, Elliott's decision was met with regret. Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry, who sits on PAC, said he phoned Elliott after hearing about the resignation and thanked him for his service to the municipality.

"There's no reversing his decision," said Berry. "He wishes to bow out while it's slow."

Berry said Elliott has offered his continued assistance to the committee. "The last thing he said on the phone was that his phone number has not changed," said Berry. "The man has class."

Councillor Mike Maher echoed Berry's sentiments about Elliott's decision to resign. "One regrets the loss of his expertise and concern for the community," he said.

Maher said one of factors that may have led to Elliott's resignation was opposition he's faced in the past. "His scalp has been called for several times," said Maher. "Someone's happy, but I'm not one of them. It's a damn shame."

He suggested that council show some official recognition for Elliott's nine years of service on the committee once Reeve Ray Moore returns from his vacation.

In an interview on Friday, Elliott discounted the notion that his resignation was due to any personal animosity. "I don't know what they're referring to," he said. "I have no problem with anybody. There are no ill feelings."

He said he feels it's time for a change. "I've been there since the committee's inception in 1982," he said. "It's time to boogie. After nine years it's time to give it up."

Zoning by-law on hold, water supply questioned

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Ministry of the Environment is holding up Minden's new zoning by-law because of insufficient water supply for future village development.

The village water system is now at capacity and the municipality is trying to secure approval to add another well into the system. Until that happens the ministry is not allowing any expansion of the existing water pipeline.

Last year the municipality investigated several possible sites for a new well and located a water source near the ambulance base on Pritchard Lane that seems to produce an adequate supply.

However the ministry rejected Minden's application to hook the well into the system and called for a comprehensive environmental assessment.

"They said the environmental assessment process was not properly dealt with," said Clayton Cameron, the municipal employee coordinating Minden's efforts. "We've had to back up and start from scratch."

The municipality has hired a firm of engineering consultants from Bracebridge to complete the necessary assessment.

The development freeze imposed by the ministry applies only to lots not yet on the town's water system and does not affect undeveloped lots already in the service area.

Cameron says the assessment will take from four to six months to complete and it could be as long as a year before a water source can be hooked into the system.

In the meantime, not only is the ministry holding up development, they are also delaying approval of Minden's new comprehensive zoning by-law and official plan.

The zoning by-law was passed in 1988 by the previous council but has been subject to a number of objections because of the flood plain mapping. Normally objections to the by-law would have dealt with by an Ontario Municipal Board hearing, but the environment ministry has asked that the hearing be delayed.

The ministry contends that Minden's official plan, which is based on the new zoning by-law, would create 131 additional lots in the village. Because Minden's water system lacks the capacity to service the additional development, the ministry is asking that the amendment be held in abeyance until the water capacity is available.

This means it could be more than a year before the ministry will allow provincial approval of the new zoning by-law. Minden clerk Mary Mysyk says the municipality is hoping to convince the province to proceed with the OMB hearing as soon as possible to try and address all outstanding problems.

Bob Robinson, right, went to see the Leafs in style last weekend, as he won a trip for two to Toronto through a Minden Minor Hockey Association draw. Along with a pair of gold tickets, Robinson won two nights at the Holiday Inn, and $200 spending money. Curtis Fielding, left, won $100 on behalf of his father Ken whose ticket was also chosen in the draw. Association president Brian Shaw presented the winners with their prizes last Monday.

Local citizens' forum planned for Wednesday

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

If the Spicer Commission won't come to Haliburton County, at least Haliburton County can go to the Spicer Commission.

Local resident Barry Devolin has organized a citizen's forum on Canada's future that will be held in the library of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School this Wednesday.

The system of community meetings was set up by the commission, headed by Keith Spicer, as one way to let ordinary Canadians voice their opinions on the future of the country.

The goal is to have people gather together and discuss the issues they feel are important.

The ideas brought forth during the discussion are recorded and sent to the Spicer Commission for consideration.

Devolin phoned the commission to inquire about organizing a meeting in the local area. He was sent a kit that outlines how to act as a moderator for the discussion.

Although he's recently become involved in the Reform Party, Devolin says he doesn't intend to use the forum as a vehicle for his own political views, in fact, as moderator he says he will have very little input into the discussion.

By inviting anyone who's interested to attend the meeting, Devolin says he's hoping to attract a wide cross-section of views.

The discussion is structured to cover four broad topics in addition to any issues or points the participants might want to raise.

The four areas of consideration include major issues facing Canada now and in the future, the future shape of Canada, Canada and the world, and what Canadians value and how it can be preserved.

Within those topics people attending the meeting will be able to address such issues as aboriginal rights, Quebec's role in Canada, regionalism, Canada's language policy and multiculturalism.

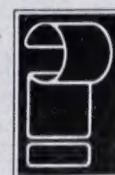

Devolin says he doesn't know how many people will turn out for the meeting, but he's prepared for a turnout from five people to forty.

"We'll play it by ear when we get there," he says. "I don't want to limit access and I won't turn anyone away."

He's hoping the meeting will produce some idea of how people in Haliburton

County feel about the future of our country. "When it lands on a desk in Ottawa, I want it to carry as much weight as possible," he says.

The meeting is being held in a seminar room in the high school library and is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

A chance to be heard

One complaint common to people living in rural areas is that they lack any real voice at the national level.

It seems that major decision are made to reflect the needs and desires of urban centres with little consideration to sparsely populated regions like Haliburton County.

So when a opportunity comes our way to speak out on issues that effect us as Canadians, it should not be wasted.

This Wednesday, local residents will be given a chance to voice their opinions on some of the most pressing issues facing the country today when a citizen's forum is convened at the high school.

One of the major flaws that has marked Canada's development as a nation has been the lack of wide-spread public input when important decision are being made.

Last June, during the ill-fated constitutional negotiations, we witnessed the consequences of this closed door policy as Canada's top politicians met in secret to try and salvage the Meech Lake Accord, itself the result of secret meetings in 1987.

To its credit the Spicer Commission, in its quest to find out what Canadians want, appears to be making a sincere effort to hear from "ordinary" Canadians who have been shut out of the political process.

Haliburton resident Barry Devolin should be congratulated for having the initiative to organize and moderate the citizen's forum on Wednesday. We, as Canadians, should take advantage of the opportunity to present our views on the future of this country.

But in order to be heard, we first have to speak out.

Gun control bill seeks seven day wait

Remember Jim Brady? Probably not. He had his fifteen minutes of fame ten years ago on the steps of the Washington Hilton.

You knew who he was then. Remember the day a love-struck loonie by the name of John Hinckley tried to blow away U.S. President Ronald Reagan? Jim Brady was the guy still lying on the sidewalk after the smoke had cleared. He was President Reagan's press secretary. He'd taken one of Hinckley's bullets in the brain and wasn't expected to live.

But he fooled us all. Jim Brady is alive today, if not kicking. He can't. He's in a wheelchair for the rest of his life, thanks to a tiny slug of lead fired from a concealed weapon by a deranged person who should never have been able to buy it.

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

But if he can't kick, Jim Brady can still fight, and one of the things he's fighting for right now is passage of the so-called "Brady Bill"—a piece of legislation modest to the point of pathos, that would require people buying handguns to wait for seven days before picking up their purchases.

The idea is that a week would give the cops time to find out if the would-be gun owner is a Mafia hit man, a Libyan terrorist or a John Hinckley wannabe.

Meanwhile, the American love affair with the gun blazes merrily on. The National Rifle Association, which is the chief opponent of the Brady Bill, is currently trying to encourage Congress to make it legal for every American to own and operate as many machine guns as he or she wants. The principal of an elementary school in Monrovia, Indiana has received permission from his school board to pack a pistol to and from the office and to keep it in his desk during working hours.

It's hard to say just how much the average American loves his right to bear arms. You can't measure that sort of thing on a graph or chart.

Praying for those "doing their duty"

Editor:

How shameful of the Lutterworth Council for rejecting the appeal of the Minden Legion to support our young men and women who are following orders of our government in an effort to stop wild men such as Hussein from taking away the freedom of other human beings.

The "Yellow Ribbon" concept is not one editorializing on the rights or wrongs of war. It is a symbol to tell the men and women who are protecting freedom that we are thinking of them — praying for them — and encouraging them to 'do their duty', with the hope that they will be back with their loved ones as soon as possible.

Rejection of the yellow ribbon is sending a message to our troops... It's as if the Lutterworth Council is saying "Get off your ships, get out of your planes, reject your government's brave decision to join with the United Nations Coalition Forces." These young men and women would love to come home, but they have committed themselves to serving their country, and in my estimation need all of the moral support we can give them. "We're thinking of you." "We're praying you don't get killed or maimed."

How discouraging and demoralizing to have our troops read our newspapers and view news clips of the Peacenicks... blocking traffic, setting up tents in Queen's Park (some taking out a few minutes each week to pick up their welfare cheques). We all abhor war! Everyone wants Peace! But when a 'cause' must be addressed then war is sometimes inevitable. Thank God we've got some of our citizens who are prepared to respond. And how disappointing that the Lutterworth Council became involved in politics, refusing to publicly and gratefully let those in the Gulf know that we care.

To broaden the insult by the Lutterworth Council, I found that the remark by Councillor Lisa Mercer — "if it's American you've got my vote against it" reflects the attitude of many people that we must tear down others to build up ourselves. Ms. Mercer must live in quite a vacuum... rejecting (because it's American), many TV shows, American cars, Disneyworld, Time and Life Magazines, California wines, clothing from L.L. Bean. Is there a blackout in her home for everything American? The Yankees, because they're American, wouldn't get her vote... nor would the Boston Bruins, The Metropolitan Opera broadcasts, Bob Hope. Such a sheltered life for the Mercer family!

And once again — shame on the Council for turning their backs on our troops. Thank goodness they are coming home to be with their families and loved ones. And how discouraging it would be for them to read the Council Minutes.

Proud to display yellow ribbon

Editor:

I have had enough.

I do not like war, I never have. I was born before World War I ended, have lived through World War II, Korea, and Vietnam conflicts. I hope I will be here to welcome our Canadian Armed Forces home again.

In the meantime I am not too prejudiced or narrow minded about putting a yellow ribbon on my door or tree.

Having had four of the immediate family in the military, I am very proud. Both sons spent 25 years in the so-called by some "tin cans". In fact, with one son and grandson still putting to sea, and patrolling both in the Pacific and Atlantic, I feel very safe. I only hope all the others in our fair country can feel the same.

If those "tin cans" can travel to Japan, Russia, Europe and the Middle East, I guess they must be made of extra, extra strong "tin".

Irene Moore,
Minden.

More than black and white issues

Editor:

In response to Lutterworth Council — no ribbon for us — maybe through these past few months if you had a 13 year old son who studied the National Defense handbook and wore a red beret, who went to bootcamp in the summer instead of the cottage. Maybe if you ironed that uniform, and sewed on a stripe, and knew in your heart that only a few years separated having him with you and possibly never seeing him again. Maybe that's what made this war very real to me, real enough to hit my knees every night and more each day, or maybe the problem is that when elected politicians deal with "black and white issues" all we really get are more "grey areas."

God bless Canada! God bless America!

Lou Weber
Gelert

P.S. By the way, last year the U.S. offered 30,000 green cards to Canadians — over 1,000,000 of us applied!

Self-centered council

Editor:

I pity the taxpayers of Lutterworth. They have such uninformed, self-centered elected council people who make derogatory statements about our armed forces.

Our troops, sailors and airmen, both men and women are the best, most highly-trained in the world. They are doing a good job of keeping Canada proud and free and should be respected and receive our support.

A slow news day?

Editor:

There must be something terribly wrong when drunk drivers are regularly thrown out of court due to delays, yet a hardworking family man is fined $300 and subjected to large, embarrassing headlines, for keeping a few personal joints in his house.

Perhaps it was a slow news day?

New fashions designed to stop bullets

We do however have some hard data on the results of the love affair. Here in Canada, where we have no constitutional rights to bear arms, handguns killed eight people in one year--1988.

In the same year in America, 8,915 people were killed by handguns.

And so far this winter six New Yorkers have been shot and killed for their coats.

That's right--for their coats. It's the latest rage in Gotham. If you plan to visit the Big Apple this winter it would be a good idea to lean towards the shabbiest outerwear in your closet--polyester and plaid if you can manage it.

You especially want to avoid mink, sheepskin or those trendy leather jackets with the number 8 embossed on the sleeves and a big red stop sign emblazoned on the back.

Apparently New York thieves are using those stop signs for target practice.

"There seems to be an unusually high number of people being killed for their coats," mused a New York police spokesman, "but in the past we've had people killed for their sneakers or gold chains."

Ah, but New York wouldn't be New York if it didn't respond to this latest Kill for Clothes fad. It has. A Manhattan company called Guardian Group International has come out with an all-new line of designer T-shirts, vests, jackets and coats.

What's different about the Guardian product line is that all the clothes are bulletproof.

And they're all for children.

Yep, American parents now send their toddler off to school in sassy, trend-setting body armour, secure in the knowledge that their kids have a better-than-average chance of surviving an encounter with a fellow citizen exercising his constitutional right to bear arms.

INDIA: ancient land of mystery captivates young traveller

by Susan Grober

India is a land of magic and mysticism for 16-year-old Catya Hynard, who recently trekked across the country for three weeks with family members.

So when she and her 13-year-old cousin Sarah decided to have their horoscopes done by an astrologer — a common practice in India — they were more than a little spooked to hear the younger girl's future.

"They told her she would die young," Catya says with disbelief. "But it ends up she had her time of birth wrong. Still, we couldn't believe it, she was really scared. We expected him to only say nice stuff, because we were crazy tourists."

Catya, a student of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, went on the trip to India and Nepal with her aunts and uncles Nancy, Brian, Peter and Barb, uncles Michael and Steve, cousins Eli and Sarah, and grandparents Agnes and Groge (an affectionate take on George, which she couldn't say as a young child).

It was actually her grandfather Groge who inspired the exotic trip.

"Grandfather really loves India," says Catya. "He's always been interested in Hinduism, and speaks a bit of Hindi."

"When their kids were little, they visited India on the way to Pakistan, and they lived there for six or seven months."

Those kids included Rozanne Hynard who, along with husband Peter, didn't have the opportunity to leave Minden for the trip to her former homeland with the rest of the family, because she is a teacher at the Archie Stouffer Elementary School annex.

Rozanne Hynard regrets missing the opportunity to relive that short segment of her past in India and Pakistan. Catya says her mother lived a storybook life there, living in a hotel in India, and having servants in Pakistan. Going back provided an opportunity her siblings treasured.

"Uncle Michael and Uncle Peter remembered a lot of stuff when they were there," says Catya. "Uncle Peter even bought a peacock feather fan, just because he had one when he was a little boy."

Catya developed her own memories of India. Some of those memories are of good times, and some are of things she would rather not have experienced. But they are all things she hopes never to forget.

"The more I think about India, the more I think about going back," says Catya. "Only it costs a lot of money. Maybe I'll go back in five or 10 years. Before I lose all my memories."

Upon her arrival in Bombay on January 19, Catya felt sick with a mixture of jet lag and culture shock.

The first things to hit her were the noise and the crowds. "I always pride myself on not being affected by culture shock," says the veteran traveler, who had previously visited such wide-ranging places as Paris, New Zealand, and Wyoming.

"But the horns are always honking," says Catya, almost reeling as she remembers the incessant noise. "In India you can be fined at least 1,000 rupees if your car has no horn. Honking a horn means everything there, from 'Get out of my way,' to 'Hello, how are you?'"

Through a young man she met, the owner of a silk store, Catya learned that the people of India don't manage to avoid undue accidents through all their honking.

"When he got his first bicycle, he had to sell it three months later because he'd Catya Hynard plans to wear this punjabi outfit from India during the summer, but if she can't get up the nerve she'll use them as pajamas, which is what the British call them. The 16-year-old Minden resident recently spent three weeks touring the northern part of India.

been in 12 accidents," she says.

During her numerous bus trips in the country, Catya was worried she may be involved in a few accidents of her own. Once, the bus had to swerve to avoid a camel cart on one side and an ox-driven cart on the other.

"The bus went whoosh, whoosh, to go past the traffic. I pulled a muscle in my back because there were no shocks on the bus."

Luckily, Catya's uncle is a masseur, which came in handy considering the state of the roads she traveled on, along with bicycles, various animals, rickshaws and autorickshaws (carts pulled by motorcycles).

Still, she may have preferred those modes of transportation. "The roads aren't great, but the buses are in worse condition," says Catya.

But the buses are well-organized. "On any bus, there's the driver and the assistant. The assistant told people to get out of the way. He'd say, 'Move over, rickshaw. Move over, bicycle.' He'd be yelling at these people, and they never got really upset."

And the crowds were incredible, especially for someone who's more familiar with downtown Minden.

"By the year 2052, India will have beat China in population," says Catya.

Birth control is strongly stressed in this booming country. Unfortunately, the population is about all that's booming.

"The one thing about India is the poverty," says Catya. "There was a lot of poverty. People would be lighting fires on the street. Some would eat on the street, and cook their meals on the street. There were too impressed.

"In the newspapers there were ads for husbands and wives," she says. "One ad said the girl must be a graduate, Hindu, vegetarian..." Catya trails off as she lists the requirements.

"And I thought, 'Talk about picky.' One ad said, will consider vegetarian, so that wasn't so bad. Another said the girl had to have medium-coloured skin, a bachelor degree in science, and be of a respectable family. I thought, 'Boy, he's never going to get married.'"

It's no wonder there are so many arranged marriages in India.

Before marrying, many Indians have their horoscopes done by an astrologer, as Catya and her cousin did. "If their horoscopes don't match, they won't get married," she says.

Catya had to provide the astrologer with the exact place, date and time of her birth to have her horoscope done. And she was surprised by some of his findings.

"When we were there, we believed every word he said, but then we realized it could mean anything. But the people in India take it all very seriously."

The astrologer told of the past, saying when Catya was six she had problems with her left leg. ("I had double-jointed hips, and when I was six it started with my left leg,"

(more on page 7)

He also said she had teeth problems at the age of 12. ("When I was 13-year-old I got braces.")

Of course, astrologers also foresee the future. "This June, I'm going to meet the man I marry," Catya learned. That's where Catya's parents probably hope he was a bit off in his predictions.

The astrologer also told Catya she'd become a writer, which is something she would really love.

Her experiences in India certainly provided the kind of inspiration most writers only dream about.

In Bombay, she visited the Elephanta caves, which featured impressive carvings of Hindu religious symbols from 450 to 750 AD. "It's mostly a tourist attraction now," says Catya. "They don't worship there as much as they used to."

The Ellora had carvings from 600 to 1,000 AD, and the Ajanta had paintings from 200 BC to 700 AD, she says.

Most attractions offered ancient artworks of breathtaking beauty, which left Catya marvelling at the talented craftsman who used rudimentary tools to make ornate carvings. Other attractions, though, were just plain depressing.

"Some places were ransacked. Somebody carved the ceiling out of a palace because it had been painted with gold. They took the gold," Catya says. "Some have been redone, but it's not quite as impressive."

During these visits, it took a while for Catya to get used to the temperatures.

"When we were in Ajanta, it was really hot," she recalls. "We would drink an Evian bottle of water between two people. It was at least 29 or 31 degrees. It was funny, because we'd say, 'Oh, it isn't so bad. It's only 29 degrees.'"

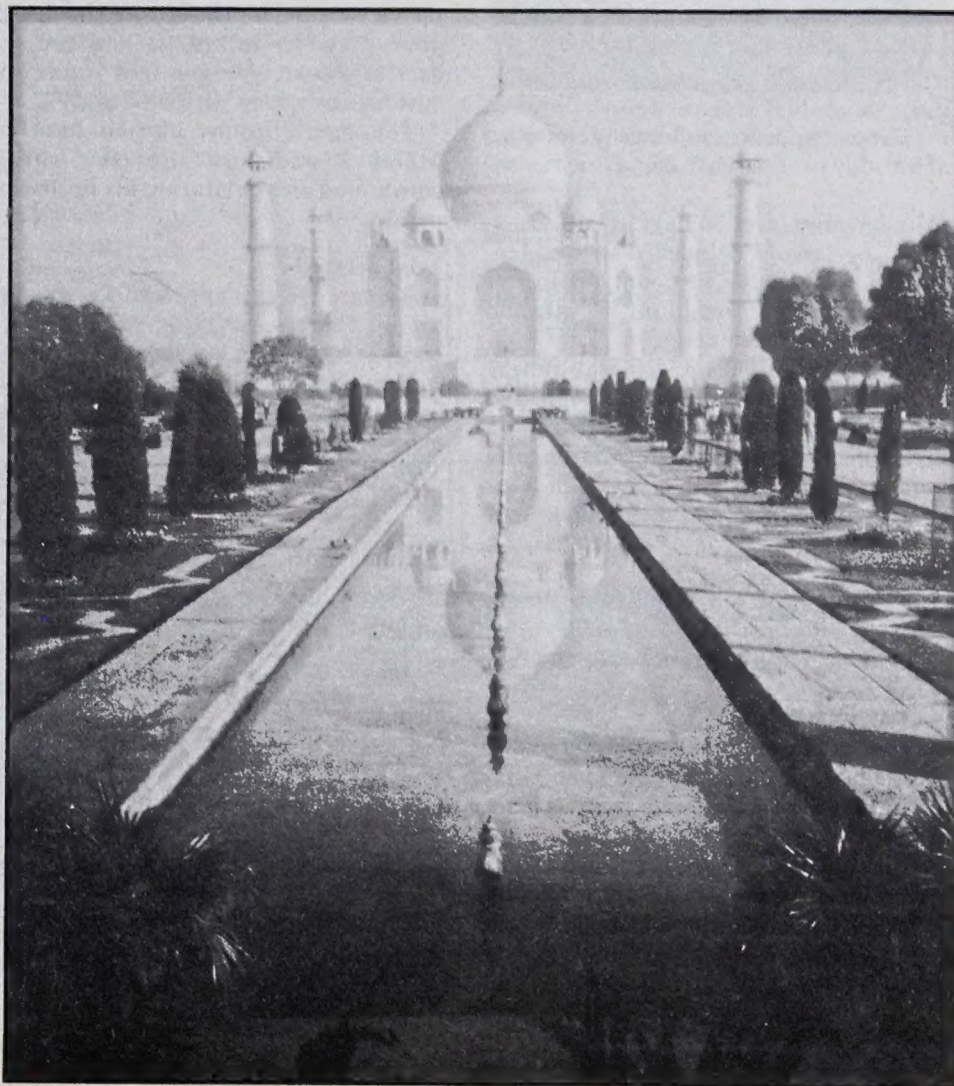

On the other hand, when she traveled further north to visit the Taj in Agra, the temperature dropped to five or 10 degrees. "It was really cold," Catya says. "In Kathmandu, we were wearing heavy sweaters and windbreakers. They do have more of a winter there, although it doesn't snow."

On these cold days, the natives would be more bundled than the Canadian tourists, who are used to cold winters. "They wore earmuffs and scarves," says Catya. "It was really cold for them."

The Indians found the weather too cold. And the tourists found the politics too hot.

"We saw calendars of (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein for sale in a marketplace," says Catya. "We read in the paper that six bombs went off in a park near us. My cousin Sarah wouldn't leave the hotel."

"In Varanasi, where the streets are a maze, Mike and Stephen got lost. A man started yelling stuff at them, and they got out of there real quick."

At times, it was hard for the clan to feel secure in the country. Especially when the Canadian Embassy suggested it wouldn't be wise for them to exhibit themselves as North Americans.

But the salesmen really liked to see American tourists. "In Ajanti, tourism was down 40 per cent when we got there, and went down 75 per cent by the time we left," says Catya.

"We'd always hear, 'I'll give you a good deal. I'll give you a free gift. It was kind of sad.'"

"Some of them tried to take advantage of us, though. But by the end of the trip, we were all haggling."

Catya's nine-year-old brother, Matthew, who doesn't even like traveling to Peterborough, would cringe at the thought of all that shopping. He actually turned down the chance at the trip because he figured a lot of time would be spent on this dreaded activity.

There were more exciting activities than shopping, though. Like riding up a steep incline toward a palace on a rather unusual form of transportation — a lumbering elephant.

"Aurangabad was the place to see elephants," says Catya. "We were going to ride a camel, too, during a 20-minute stop between Jaipur and Agrab, but our bus was leaving, and we couldn't get around to it."

Another form of transportation Catya became very familiar with was flying. Her family traveled on several small planes within the country, and visited their fair share of dingy airports.

The wall behind each seat would be stained, because the people wear hair oil, remembers Catya. "It really grossed Sarah and I out."

The flights themselves were also interesting. "The pilots flew faster than they should have," she says. "It would say one hour on the agenda, and it would be a 35 minute flight."

And the landings left something to be desired. "Landing and taking off in a plane is usually pretty smooth and slow, but you really noticed on these planes. Your ears popped majorly," says Catya.

"To land, the plane would just go whap! The roof shook, and the wings would vibrate."

It wasn't much fun for Groge. "Grandfather is a bad flyer. We always sat over the wings, so he wouldn't have to see the ground."

Catya's family also had to get used to the spicy foods in India. "The spices were so strong — if you weren't feeling well, the thought of the spices would sicken you," says Catya. "You had to order extra, extra mild, just so your mouth wouldn't burn."

But they never drank water to wash any of it down. "Grandmother said we couldn't have water or milk. We couldn't even have ice cubes or ice cream. I was dying for ice cream by the time I left."

Catya would normally order whatever food her Aunt Barb was eating, just to be safe. Until they visited a restaurant in Nepal, when Barb and Sarah got food poisoning after eating the same dish.

"After that incident in Kathmandu, I didn't order anything that Barb had," says Catya.

Although she got tired of the food, Catya fell in love with the more romantic aspects of India, especially the Taj Mahal in Agra.

"Everything is symmetrical in the Taj, except for the pretend tomb. It was really nice, and it was really magical," she says, thinking about the story of how the tomb was built by Shah Jahan for his wife.

Considered to be the most beautiful building in the world, the Taj Mahal is flanked by four slim, white minarets, and topped by a white dome. The entire structure is of marble.

Catya was also impressed with the Ganges River, which flows through the country.

In this river, people do their laundry, say their prayers, float the ashes of their dead, and even drink the water. Candles surrounded by leaves and flowers would float along its surface, representing the prayers of the people.

The Ganges River flows with life and death.

"The people believe the water would heal them," says Catya, who was rather disgusted to hear that boats police the waters to push the dead bodies of lepers under the water.

"It's not as polluted as you'd think," she says. "There's an anti-bacteria in the water that kills organisms. But you cannot see the bottom. The water is a murky green."

Catya hopes to return some day, to revisit the areas she grew to love in India and Nepal. She would also like the opportunity to visit some of the more southern cities she wasn't able to see.

"We crammed a lot into those three weeks," she says.

Community service accepted instead of fine

The following cases were heard by Judge Sidney Lindon last Wednesday in provincial court in Minden. Rick Bagg acted as Crown Attorney.

Sculptor will do community service

Garry F. Sheath pleaded guilty to a charge of driving with more than 80 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood.

On September 8, 1990, Sheath was stopped at a RIDE program set up at Highway 118 in Haliburton.

He was found to have 168 and 165 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood after two breathalyzer tests were performed later at the Minden OPP detachment.

Defence lawyer David Shapiera asked if Sheath could perform community service in lieu of a substantial fine.

Sheath is unemployed from his work as a general labourer because of an injury, said Shapiera.

He no longer receives compensation, and has been sculpting in wood, although he does not receive any income from this hobby.

Shapiera suggested Sheath could either volunteer to teach classes in sculpting, or donate some of his artwork to the community.

"He's very willing to donate whatever's necessary to the community in lieu of a maximum fine," said the lawyer, who suggested 120 hours of community work.

Judge Lindon agreed, and waived a surcharge on Sheath's minimum $300 fine, which is mandatory for the offence. Also, Sheath's licence is suspended for a period of one year.

Pair to appear for possession

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Kevin E. Buckley, and co-accused Shirley Johnston.

On July 15, 1989, Buckley was arrested and charged with assault causing bodily harm. The 34-year-old also faces an assault causing bodily harm charge from June 22, 1990, and a narcotics possession on that same date.

Johnston faces a related possession charge from an incident on June 22.

In the courts

The pair appeared in Lindsay court last Thursday on February 28.

Minden man faces 30 days in jail

A 26-year-old Minden man was sentenced to 30 days in county jail after pleading guilty to assaulting his wife and failing to appear in court.

On May 26, 1990, the man was waiting outside in the car as his wife shopped at Easton's Valu-mart in Haliburton. He was with the couple's two children, and one stepchild.

The wife returned to the car, and told her husband they would give her friend a ride home.

An argument ensued, and the man grabbed his wife's neck and squeezed so she could breathe, but not talk. He had been drinking before the incident occurred, said Crown Attorney Bagg.

The man let go after the woman pulled out some of his hair. She grabbed her son and left, and eventually went to her mother's nearby home.

The man was released on a recognizance, and was required to attend court on July 6 for a first appearance. A warrant for his arrest was issued after he failed to appear, and the man later turned himself in.

"There was a mix-up with the court date," the man explained.

The man has a criminal record from 1983 to 1986, with charges of possession of stolen property worth over $1,000, obstructing police, dangerous driving, and failure to appear in court.

Because domestic violence is a serious charge, Bagg suggested a 30-day sentence. Because the man works in Minden, he will serve the sentence intermittently on weekends.

He also faces one year's probation, where he must attend a family violence course as a condition.

"Domestic violence is a very serious matter," said Judge Lindon, who gave the man a warning for the future. "In view of your previous record, if you are not careful you are going to find yourself in custody for a long period of time."

The man's begins his jail term on March 9, and must also refrain from consuming alcohol during his probation period.

Trial delayed

Richard D. Hart appeared on impaired driving charges, but a trial was postponed because his defence lawyer wasn't present.

Hart was charged with impaired driving and driving with more than 80 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood on April 28, 1990. He explained that his lawyer couldn't attend court because he had broken his foot.

Hart returns to court on May 8 for trial.

$200 fine for possession

An 18-year-old Stanhope resident was fined $200 for possession of stolen property and breach of probation.

On July 26, 1990, Michael Mueller's friend entered a cottage near Mueller's home and took $600 worth of items, including a leather jacket, a belt buckle, a pellet gun, and two bottles of liquor, said Crown Attorney Bagg.

A bottle of whisky was consumed by the pair, and the friend turned the other liquor bottle and the gun over to Mueller, who later gave them back to his friend.

Judge Lindon was told this was Mueller's first adult offence.

Impaired driver pleads not guilty

A Haliburton man pleaded not guilty of impaired driving charges, saying an alcohol-based mouthwash he'd been using must have given him a higher reading during a breathalyzer test.

Shelley Lee Whitteker, 40, was stopped at a RIDE program set up at Highland Street in Haliburton on the night of December 14 last year.

Later, at the Minden OPP detachment, a breathalyzer test determined he had 130 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood. The legal limit is 80 mg.

During the trial, Whitteker testified that he didn't know how the readings could have been that high, as he'd only consumed three beers that night. He said he had dental surgery, and had been using "a very high antiseptic mouthwash," every two hours for two days before the arrest.

Whitteker called Danuta Kuna as a witness. Kuna is a co-worker at the PineStone Inn, and testified the man had borrowed $10 that night for three beers.

Whitteker also said he had been aware that the RIDE unit was set up. "On that night, I knew there was a RIDE program because people tend to phone the bars," he said.

Crown Attorney Bagg said the accused's belief that he was under 80 mg makes no difference.

"He knew he was drinking," said Bagg. "The elements (of guilt) are that he was driving and that he had consumed alcohol."

Whitteker said he would never intentionally drive while impaired. "I'm very aware of drinking and driving."

Judge Lindon found Whitteker guilty of the charge, and heeded Bagg's suggestion of a minimum $300 fine.

"It's unfortunate that Mr. Whitteker drove," said Bagg. "It leads to the solution that anytime you drink, you shouldn't drive..."

"The mouthwash may have contributed, but you did consume alcohol that night," Whitteker was told.

Also, Whitteker's driver's licence was suspended for one year.

Fee is higher than fine

A Minden man says the legal system is discouraging him from appealing a speeding conviction.

Gary Warburton appeared to appeal a conviction of driving 62 km in a 40 km zone on May 27, 1990. But he must pick

County teachers measure up says superintendent

by Susan Grober

The top-notch teachers of Haliburton County can compare with those from school boards across the province, says Superintendent of Education Dale Robinson.

At last Tuesday's Haliburton County Board of Education meeting, Robinson said he has almost completed inspections of teaching staff.

"I'm very happy to report I have seen the overwhelming majority have been doing an excellent job, and we really have excellent teachers," he said.

Robinson has been sitting in on each teacher's classroom for about an hour and a half, and writing up reports after each inspection.

Experienced teachers are reviewed every three years by the board, while new teachers are seen more frequently.

To date, Robinson has seen 56 teachers. Most don't like the idea of being under scrutiny at first, "but afterward they say, I'm really glad you came," he said.

Robinson was especially impressed with how well the teachers have implemented new programs and initiatives.

"There's lots of group work, and the centres approach, and active learning," he said.

Having the opportunity to assure the board of positive aspects also pleased Robinson.

"Although we always hear the complaints, we have a lot of good things going on in the schools. All too often, we hear the negative side."

Trustee Len Salvatori disagreed. "We always look at the good side of everything, but is there anything you found in your report that's concerning you?"

Some new teachers needed suggestions on how to improve, said Robinson. And experienced teachers had suggestions on their reports as well.

"But overall, I saw a lot of very strong teaching and good learning going on, which is as good as anywhere in the province, I'm convinced of that," he said.

Salvatori said three years is a long stretch of time for teachers to go unsupervised.

Robinson explained these teachers are regularly visited by the principal of their schools. It's only the in-depth report from board administration staff that is performed every three years.

"Trustee Lloyd Griffiths has seen three schools in the county — Cardiff, J. Douglas Hodgson, and the high school.

"And with each one of them, you get a good feeling when you walk in the front door. That feeling permeated the three schools," he said.

Griffiths was also impressed with the industriousness of the students. "I had my head in every classroom, and I think it speaks well (of our schools)."

up a transcript of the one-hour trial held last November, which will cost him $4 a page for processing.

"It's a lot of money compared to the fine," Warburton told Judge Lindon. "I could end up paying $400. It's kind of discouraging the course of justice."

Warburton hoped the trial could be held last Wednesday, but he didn't have the transcript. Also, he had already driven to and from Lindsay that morning after being mistakenly informed the trial would be held there.

"I'm not prepared to hear it without a transcript," said Judge Lindon. "I think it's unfortunate that this gentleman wanted to appeal and was sent to Lindsay through no fault of his own."

The judge instructed court clerk Janice McCarthy to help Warburton attain the transcript.

Warburton said he is appealing the conviction because he believes the 40 km sign is unlawful.

Crown Attorney Bagg advised Warburton to find evidence of this before wasting his time and money with the appeal.

The following is a reprint of court stories that got jumbled in last week's court report. The cases were heard on February 20 in provincial court in Minden.

14 days in jail for impaired driving

A man found drunk behind the wheel of a parked car was sentenced to 14 days in county jail.

Joseph W. Boman was charged with impaired driving and driving with more than 80 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood after he was found in Lutterworth Township near the Boundary Road last June 16, in a car that was parked in the middle of the road with the engine off, and the high beams on.

A breathalyzer test determined he had 180 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood. The legal limit is 80 mg.

Crown Attorney Jerry Woron said Bowman has one previous impaired charge, in September of 1989.

Woron also noted the parked vehicle could have created a serious accident. "Fortunately, the vehicle wasn't stopped on the road with the lights out."

Defence lawyer Tim Johnston said Bowman doesn't remember getting into the truck and driving. He'd left home that night with no intention of driving. A friend had picked him up to go drinking at Gelert Gardens.

"He does not know how he got behind the wheel," said Johnston, asking for the minimum penalty.

Judge George Inrig sentenced Bowman to the mandatory jail term for a second offence. Also, the man's driver's licence is suspended for two years.

Deep Bay Road mishap involved alcohol

A 31-year-old Oshawa man involved in an accident on Deep Bay Road last October pleaded guilty to impaired driving and lost his licence for a year.

On October 19, William Dean Jones suffered a cut to his lower lip after his southbound pickup truck failed to negotiate a slight curve, crossed the road, and hit a tree.

Jones told Judge George Inrig he will lose his job in downtown Toronto as the result of having his driver's licence suspended. And the truck, which Jones is still paying for, was a total write-off.

Judge Inrig fined Jones the minimum $300, and suspended his licence for the mandatory 12 months.

Chief Judge spends day on Minden bench

by Susan Grober

The Chief Judge of the Provincial Division presided at local courts last week to get a feel of the area's needs, and this region should get at least one new judge.

Chief Judge Sidney B. Lindon is responsible for assigning new judges to specific locations within the region.

In November, Attorney General Howard Hampton announced 27 new provincial division judges would be appointed to reduce delays and backlogs in Ontario's criminal court system.

So far, 18 of these judges have been appointed throughout Ontario. And after last week's experience, Lindon will have a better understanding of the needs in Lindsay district when he decides how to distribute the nine remaining judges.

As it stands now, Wednesday is the only court day in Minden, with Judge George Inrig presiding. Court matters are usually remanded when Judge Inrig is not available on these days.

Lindon was unavailable for comment, but Maureen Murphy of the Chief Judge's office says Lindsay district will probably be assigned at least one extra judge.

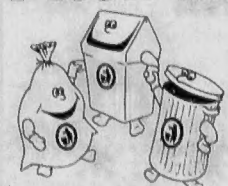

The first judges to be appointed went to courts with the greatest need, says Murphy. Five judges were appointed to Brampton, one to Scarborough, and one to North York.

More recently, three judges were appointed to the Central South region, one to Central West, two to South West, one to Central East, one to East, and one to North West.

Eleven of the new judges appointed to the bench are women. And one, Terry Vyse who will serve in the Central South region, is the first female native judge in Canada.

Elementary level students will still be prohibited from smoking on school grounds.

Trustee Craig Pettit said it's unsuitable for teachers to smoke on school property. "Smoking is not proper education of students," he said.

Mary Anne Wilson said the board should be able to trust elementary school teachers to show good judgement before lighting up.

"These adults that we're talking about have the best interests of the children at heart," she said. "I don't think we'll have a problem with them finding an appropriate area."

"They were discrete before," said Wayne Wood.

Wendy Ladurantaye said when smoking was allowed on board property, some people would smoke just outside the school doors.

She also said there were problems during summer courses when lots of cigarette butts were left on the ground where smokers failed to use ash cans which were provided.

"I don't think it's appropriate for our janitors to have to clean that up," she said.

Board policy should outline specific areas where smoking is to be allowed, such as in adults' cars, said Ladurantaye. "I think we should clarify these issues so everybody knows."

However, Nancy Stinson felt the board should only stipulate that smoking is not allowed in the building to avoid undue confusion. "You're going to start putting so many little bits and pieces into the policy, it's going to make it difficult to enforce."

"When you were allowed to smoke outdoors, I don't remember problems with people smoking outside the doors," added Chairman Cheryl Murdoch. "I don't remember hearing any complaints."

Men's League Hockey play-offs continue tonight at the Minden Arena.

Home has headlock on top spot

Home Hardware continues its domination of the Men's Recreational League play-offs. The team extended its winning streak to three in the five game round robin play-offs. Home squared off against Hartwick Construction last Monday to add the third victory to the run up to the play-offs. The final score was 6-2.

Scoring for Home Hardware were Barry Boice with a pair, Jeff Stamp on an unassisted effort, and singles from Ben Manuge, Dave Rogers and Ken Barry. The Hartwick goals were scored by Wayne Dickenson and Eldon Bull.

The biggest surprise of the evening came in the third game. In what can only be described as a stunning upset, The Times team battled back from a 6-2 deficit at the end of the second period to defeat Sid Stamp Fuels 9-7. This was the first victory for The Times in the series and even more phenomenal since the team was playing without some of its key skaters. The loss was the first for the Sid Stamp team, a squad which has shown strong form throughout the season and, up to that point, in the play-offs as well.

Scoring for The Times were Andy McKenzie, Jim Crawford, Doug Allison and Greg Newell with a pair each. One of Newell's goals was unassisted. Andy Campbell and George Crofts netted singles for the revitalized double 'T's'.

Marksmen for the Sid Stamp Fuel team included, a pair from Ivan Ingram, Corey Walker and Brian Shaw with a single going to Craig Crowe.

In the other play-off game, Westside Jug City toppled the Rockcliffe Tavern 11-3. Rockcliffe was hampered by a shallow bench, with only eight skaters and a goalie dressed for the evening.

Dean Hewitt led the massacre for Jug City with five goals and three assists. Other scorers included Dave Dollo with a pair, Derek Allison, Mike Keaney, Dave Hartwick and Gary Harrison all with singles. Hartwick and Keaney were each credited with five assists.

Rockcliffe goals came from Ron Perrin unassisted, Jeff Howe and Sid McKeigan.

The standings now, after three games, sees Home Hardware atop the race with a 3-0 record. Sid Stamp Fuels and Westside are tied for second spot with a two wins and a loss each, while The Times, Rockcliffe Tavern and Hartwick Construction all have won one and lost two. At the end of the round robin series, the top two teams will play off in a best of three elimination.

The action continues tonight with the fourth game in the round robin play-offs. First teams hit the ice at 7 p.m.

On his hands and knees, Westside goalie Terry Crowe leads the search for the puck during a goalmouth scramble last Monday. The tangle was part of the action during a round robin play-off game at the Minden arena. Westside won this one, crushing the Rockcliffe team 11-3.

4 for Crego as Pee Wees trounce Cannington

Minden Tri-County Pee Wees humbled a strong Cannington team with a 9-2 triumph Saturday afternoon at the Minden arena, February 23. Andrew Crego started with a six-point game, four goals and two assists. Terry King came up big in goal, especially in the third period keeping Cannington to just two goals.

Andrew Crego scored his first goal at 6:49 to open the scoring from a Dave Fitzell pass. Cannington tied the score just 40 seconds later. Andrew Crego scored his second at 14:20 of the second on a nice rush assisted by Benji Crego and Marty Dettman. Marty Dettman made it 3-1 for Minden at 13:46 when he banged in an unassisted goal from a goal mouth pile up.

Todd Redgrave scored a minute and one second later when he picked up a pass from Andrew Nesbitt. Andrew Crego scored his hat trick on a hard shot that beat the Cannington goalie on the glove side at 5:31, unassisted.

Cannington scored with 2:38 left in the second to make it 5-2 going into the third.

Todd Redgrave made it 6-2 after 17 seconds of the third when he slipped an Andrew Crego shot off the Cannington goalie into the net. Arron Belton picked up an assist also.

Andrew Crego scored his fourth goal at 5:51, assisted from Travis Willison and Marty Dettman.

Todd Redgrave scored hit hat trick at 4:13 when he blasted a shot from the slot after being fed a perfect pass by Bobbi Griffin.

Arron Belton capped the route with 2:07 remaining on a nice goal assisted by Andrew Crego and Dave Fitzell. Benji Crego was superb on defence. Final score: Minden, 9-Cannington, 2.

Minden's Monarch Tri-County Pee Wees travelled to Cannington Sunday evening for a return engagement with Cannington and what a game it was. Cannington was ready. Minden was sluggish in the first period and Cannington took full advantage to score at 8:22 and 4:57 to take a 2-0 lead into the second. Minden

OMHA Pee Wees lose to Little Britain

by Lisa Bagshaw

On Thursday, February 21, the Minden OMHA Pee Wees travelled to Little Britain for a playoff game.

Little Britain opened the scoring at 9:07 and it wasn't until 4:26 that Minden's Scott Dedman was able to slip one in on a pass from Dave Raback.

With 47 seconds left in the first, Jeff Wray managed to get the lead on a pass from Curtis Fielding and Scott Dedman.

The score was 2-1 going into the second, and at the 3:20 mark Aaron Tomlinson scored the final goal of the game on a pass from Chris Eskelin.

Final score: Minden, 3 - Little Britain, 1.

On the following Saturday Minden was host to Little Britain. Aaron Tomlinson opened the scoring at 9:42 in the first period. Little Britain answered at 7:44 making the score 1-1 going into the second.

Only 52 seconds into the period, Dennis Woods was able to pound one past the opponent's goaltender, and at 10:02 Andrew McKelvey managed to make the score 3-1. However, Little Britain came back and scored two more goals in the second making it 3-3 going into the third.

It was Minden who once again opened the scoring when Andrew McKelvey scored his second goal of the game. At 8:07 Aaron Tomlinson scored his second goal to make the score 5-3.

Little Britain was not ready to give up and managed to score two more goals making the final score 5-5.

Woodville takes Tri-County Pee Wees by 8-4 score

Minden Tri-County Pee Wees faced tough opposition with Woodville Tuesday night, February 26 at the Minden arena. Woodville took a 3-0 lead into the second period and made it 4-0 at 10:33 of the second.

Minden got one back in the second when Todd Redgrave fired the puck past the Woodville goalie with 1:43 remaining in the second. Andrew Crego and Arron Belton drew the assists.

The third period saw

Minden open the scoring at 12:41 on a goal by Arron Belton after Todd Redgrave circled the net to give Arron the pass, to make it 4-2 Woodville.

Woodville scored again at 11:09 to make it 5-2. Minden got one back at 10:18 on a goal by Andrew Crego assisted by Arron Belton.

With just 6:53 left, Todd Redgrave got the puck back to Travis Willison for a shot from the point to make it a 5-4 contest for Woodville.

Woodville scored again with 2:48 left and with 1:13 left Minden pulled the goalie in favour of a sixth attacker. Minden did everything but put the puck in the net and with 23 seconds left, Woodville scored into the empty net. Woodville added another with one second remaining to make the final score Woodville, 8 - Minden, 4. It was Minden's first loss of the playoffs.

Second win in Cannington

got one back on a goal by Benji Crego assisted by Andrew Crego and Todd Redgrave.

Cannington went ahead 3-1 with 3:13 left in the second.

Minden came out flying in the third period and on the powerplay, Todd Redgrave won the draw and put a perfect pass onto Andrew Crego's stick and it was in the net at 13:54. Coach Dettman deserved the other assist on this play sent in from the bench. That narrowed the gap to 3-2 for Cannington. Arron Belton drew Minden even with another powerplay goal at 12:01 with Marty Dettman and Benji Crego assisting.

Todd Redgrave set up Andrew Crego at 10:54 after taking a pass from Benji Crego. Arron Belton scored an insurance goal with 6:46 left in the third with Benji Crego and Marty Dettman drawing the assists. This goal proved the games winner as Cannington scored with 1:20 left in the third with the Cannington goalie out in favour of a sixth attacker. Minden rallied to goalie Kings and to preserve the victory, a 5-4 thriller over Cannington.

It was a tough, physical game and the Minden bench was beginning to look like a hospital ward. Minden travels to Woodville tonight for an important playoff game. Game time: 8:30 p.m.

Trustee feels education needs overlooked

by Susan Grober

A Dysart trustee is furious that Bark Lake camp is getting a $1.7 million provincial grant, while the school board must continue to beg for funding.

The provincial government's system for funding projects "is way out of whack," said Dysart trustee Tim Casey at last Tuesday's meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education.

"We're struggling to keep our kids out of portables, and it doesn't seem right that those funds are going to nature trails," he said.

More than $1.7 million has been allotted for renovations projects at the Ontario Camp Leadership Centre located at Bark Lake near Irondale. The camp is run by the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation.

The projects include renovation and upgrading of five buildings to provide disabled access; replacement of six 25-year-old seasonal accommodation units; renovation of 20-year-old washroom/shower units to allow disabled access; upgrading of 25 kilometres of nature trails for improved safety and disabled access.

The funds are part of the government's $700 million economic stimulation program, and should create about 30 jobs during the recession, says Ontario Minister of Tourism and Recreation Peter North.

But Casey would like to see some of that money going towards education.

Casey brought up the subject in light of a report on the board's prospects for provincial funding by board Chairman Cheryl Murdoch and Director of Education Stuart Baker.

The pair met with Minister of Education Marion Boyd on February 11 for a central Ontario region meeting of directors and chairmen at Toronto's Bristol Place Hotel.

Boyd had a difficult group to work with "because we all had our hands out," said Murdoch.

"The bottom line was, 'Don't get your hopes up, because there just isn't the money,'" Murdoch explained.

The Haliburton board has its request in for spring allocations. "But the story's the same — we're all on the waiting list," said Murdoch.

Baker said the problem lies with the ministry's definition of high growth boards, relying on numbers rather than percentages of growth.

Therefore, a small board such as Haliburton's isn't a top priority for funding. "We're considered to be a wealthy board," Baker said as trustees groaned in response.

The ministry will increase funding by six percent, which will help cover the 5.5 per cent inflation rate, plus add 1.9 for growth, said Baker.

"For the past four or five years, I've asked for a definition of what is high growth, but there's no real definition," said Baker, who relayed his concerns with the ministry.

"We have had more growth in Haliburton County than other areas," said Baker.

"But they need to look at percentage increase, as opposed to numbers, which is all they consider."

Overall, Murdoch was impressed by the new education minister, and how she handled the meeting. "It could have turned out to be quite volatile. She dealt with it really well."

Murdoch would like to invite Boyd to tour the county's schools. "Seeing is worth a thousand words," she said. "If we could get her here to come up and see our schools, then that would be a bonus for us."

Ontario's previous education minister, Sean Conway, visited the schools nearly a year ago, in April of 1990, but made no promises about funding.

Len Salvatori expressed disdain for politicians who don't listen to the people.

"They make a little speech, and bugger off as soon as they can get to the door," said Salvatori. "They have to listen to us if they want some input that's right."

Along with looking at the funding of education, the ministry is currently studying fair taxation, said Baker. The ministry will consider formulating education taxes on an income tax basis rather than on property taxes.

This subject is a particular bone of contention for cottagers, who resent having to pay education taxes of each of their properties.

Public's Guide To Waste Management Seminars

by Len Munt,
Waste Management Co-ordinator.

Most people would like to know what will take place at one of these seminars. The questions I get asked are: Will there be cots available for dozing or will we be able to leave when we get bored? Well, I'm hoping this article will be of some help.

First of all, come prepared to get involved. Bring some paper and a pencil to take notes. Put on your thinking cap. Drill questions at people hired to answer them. Every question is worth asking, if you have a concern, no matter what, ask it!

Another crucial ingredient is preparing oneself prior to the meeting. I will help you by telling you what topics will be discussed at the Waste Management Seminar. Read these items and if you have any questions prior to the meeting, please feel free to call me at 286-1333.

WHAT WILL YOU DO FOR YOUR RED CROSS?

Larry Tupling and snowmobile tour organizer Bob Hewitt of Rochester New York plan a day's outing as they examine the HCSA trail map. The two recently led a group of 16 enthusiastic snowmobilers on a series of tours of the Highland's trail system.

Highlands trails attract American snowmobilers

After years of promoting the county as a location for excellent snowmobiling, people outside the immediate area are starting to take notice of what the Highlands has to offer. This past week, a tour organizer from New York State brought a group of 16 snowmobile enthusiasts here for a four day, three night taste of Highlands hospitality.

This, of course, is not the first time individuals have come here to enjoy snowmobiling, and neither is it the first time an organized group has made the Highlands their destination. However, it is indicative of a trend that suggests that years of promotion and hard work on the part of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association (HCSA), Chamber of Commerce and local lodges is paying off.

The latest group to visit the Highlands made Hart Lodge on Highway 35 north of Minden their home base. Bob Hewitt of Rochester, New York, first heard of the Haliburton Highlands when he ment Hart Lodge co-owner John Mateer at a tourism show in New York. (In a recently signed agreement, the Granite Group has purchased a portion of Hart Lodge. Mateer will continue as part owner and manager of the facility.)

John invited Bob and his wife to the lodge for a weekend to give them an opportunity to see what the area had to offer. "My wife loved the food and hospitality," Hewitt said. He also saw the potential for snowmobiling here and so he designed and promoted a package for snowmobile enthusiasts. The result was the 16 member group who enjoyed their stay last week.

Hewitt is an avid snowmobile rider. He explained that he has participated in a number of tours that were more expensive and poorly organized. "I decided I could do better than what they were doing," he declared. With that he formed his own company, Snow Goer Tours Incorporated. Promoting his tour through the use of videos and attending snowmobile club meetings in the New York and Pennsylvania area, he was able to attract enough people for this excursion in the Highlands.

With the use of a local guide, Larry Tupling, a vice

Home Support agency review completed

On Tuesday, January 15, 1991, Shelly Jamieson and Jerry Organ of Jamieson Research & Consulting Inc. presented to the Haliburton County Home Support Services Board of Directors, their Agency Review Study Final Report.

Jamieson stated during her presentation that the purpose of an Agency Review was not to acknowledge an Agency's strengths or what the Agency is doing right, but to focus weaknesses and present recommendations to improve administrative efficiency and effective delivery of service to client and community.

The Board of Directors received the report which contained 37 recommendations. The Board moved that an ad hoc committee be formed by January 25 consisting of two community members, three board members with ex-officio member to be the Ministry of Community and Social Services verbally requested representation on this committee. The mandate of the ad hoc committee was to study and make recommendations from the Agency Review Study and present the committee's recommendations to the Board during the next meeting to be held in February.

Members of the committee were Marlene Mestroni, Wendy Gunning and Margaret Jeske from the Board, Elva Robinson and Hadden Gillespie from the Community, Donna Pacey, Ex-officio, Executive Director and John Lohrenz, Ex-officio, Ministry of Community and Social Services representative. The Committee met on January 24, 25 and February 14. Their findings were presented to the Board of Directors on Monday, February 18, 1991. The Ad Hoc Committee recommended for immediate implementation, 19 of the Review's recommendations with the remaining 18 being identified by the Committee as mid- to long-term objectives, to be dealt with by the Board of Directors within the next six months.

The Board voted in support of the ad hoc committee's recommendations and work is now underway to implement the 19 immediate objectives. The Board also supported that the remaining recommendations of the study would be dealt with over the next six months.

Some of the recommendations had been on-stream prior to the Agency Review and the Review validated the direction we are taking.

During the January 15 meeting when the final report was presented to the Board, the consultants were hopeful that the Board would move to accept the report in its entirety. The Board voted to receive the report instead for the following reasons: 1) the consultants mailed a copy of the report to each Board Member and a few had not had the opportunity to read the whole report; 2) there was disagreement with some of the wording in the report, and 3) there was information about programs which was not incorporated into the report. There was some discussion from the consultants and the ministry that if the Board did not accept the report it could not be released to the public. But confusion did arise because the Ministry of Community and Social Services also stated that once the Board received the report it would be a public document. The Board of Directors of Home Support have nothing to hide and agree that the study is an excellent working model for Haliburton County Home Support Services. We are pleased that the Ministry of Community and Social Services agreed to fund an Agency Review which we have been seeking for the last two years. The recommendations of the study have been given a high priority by the Board and the Agency as a whole.

Implementation is happening as you read this press release.

Although the report was received by the Board and not accepted, the Board believes that the study is a public document. Therefore, it invites and encourages the public to read for themselves the Agency Review Study Final Report. A copy of the report is available in two ways for the public viewing. First, a copy of the report will be on hand at the front desk in Home Support Office to be read on the premises. Secondly, anyone may obtain a personal copy of the study for a cost of $20 to cover the expense of photocopying. The study contains 49 pages.

The Annual Meeting of Haliburton County Home Support Services will be held on Friday, May 31, 1991 and an update of what has been implemented from the study will be presented in more detail. All are welcome to attend.

A hospitable welcome for snowmobilers

president with the HCSA and Haliburton Lake resident, the group logged 130 to 150 miles of travel a day. A typical day begins with an early breakfast and a trail departure by 8:30 in the morning. Depending on the length of the day's excursion, the riders could be astride their machines for up to eight hours.

Friday, for example, the group travelled to Whitney before turning around and heading back to Hart Lodge. After a hearty meal in the evening, the group enjoys the hospitality of the lodge around the fireplace in the main lounge.

Hewitt said the excursions are not for the novice. "I insist that all participants be experienced riders and that they have reasonably good quality equipment," he said.

Hewitt said he was most impressed with the welcome and hospitality of the area. Not only has the lodge lived up to his expectations, a nearby snowmobile service depot has ensured the participants would not miss a moment of snowmobiling. The management and mechanic at Wedgewood Marina, just across the bridge from Hart Lodge, offered to carry out repair or service work after normal hours. "It is this kind of hospitality and concern for the visitor that is going to keep people coming back," Mateer commented.

As well, Mateer pointed out that the riders have also been enjoying local restaurants and shopping at Minden and Haliburton stores. He estimates that each participant will have spent $3500 to take part in this excursion. "A lot of that money is floating around in the local economy," he pointed out.

Tupling said a number of tours, similar to the one organized by Hewitt have been held in the Highlands over the past months and years, and that more are planned. He said the area offers an excellent trail network and topography which is picturesque and challenging.

If the enthusiasm of Hewitt and his group is any indication, we will likely see more such groups in our area in the future.

Police investigate snowmobile thefts

During the week of February 18 to 24, 1991, officers of the Minden Detachment investigated 51 general occurrences, nine auto accidents with two people injured and one snowvehicle accident with no injuries.

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

History shows years of Rotary service

There is a saying: "The more things change, the more they stay the same." Cec Rowe proved this again when he recently found an article on the Rotary Club in a History of Minden.

The Minden Rotary Club was sponsored by the Haliburton Club and received its charter June 18, 1947. There were 23 charter members and although none of these gentlemen are members of today's club, their commitment to the community was very evident from a list of their donations and activities. These include, Minden Recreation Centre, instruments and uniforms for the county band, juvenile hockey, crippled children, youth work in general and reforestation. If you remember back to my last column listing our contributions for the past six months, I think you will agree that things have not changed very much.

Coming back to the present however, we have enjoyed several interesting programs recently. Meaghan Obee gave us an excellent talk about her 5 week experience as a Page in the Ontario Legislature. This must have been a very educational time for her as she met influential individuals and learned a lot about government operations.

For Your Service

by Rotarian Bill Roszell

Len Munt, Haliburton County's co-ordinator for Forest Health and Waste Management, presented an overview of the Gypsy Moth, showing us the history, spread and effects of this little pest along with some helpful suggestions for its control.

Last Monday, Louise Craig from Ontario Hydro spoke to us about conservation practices and programs available from Ontario Hydro to help us cut down on our use of electricity, thereby reducing our Hydro bills. We appreciate the help!

Upcoming programs also show a lot of promise. Bill Obee, (yes he is Meaghan's father) will try to uphold the family tradition of presentation excellence as he presents — Portland Cement??

On March 11 we held our meeting with the folks at Hyland Crest and later in the month we will have the enigma of no fault insurance cleared up by Brent Clarkson.

Attendance at Tuesday night Bingo has been down a bit through most of January and February this year, but last Tuesday things picked up again with 134 players. Come on out for good prizes, good fun and lots of Bingo, any Tuesday night at the Arena Recreation Centre.

See you next time.

GREY WATER DISPOSAL FROM PLEASURE BOATS

Environmental Protection Act
Regulation Amendment

INVITATION FOR PUBLIC COMMENT

The Ministry of the Environment invites public comment on amendments to regulations 305 and 310 under the Environmental Protection Act. The changes will make it illegal to discharge grey water waste from shower and sink facilities on pleasure boats into Ontario's lakes and rivers.

The amendments, designed to reduce water pollution, will affect new and existing boats. Adjustments will have to be made to store grey water in holding tanks, and discharge it at pump-out stations.

An information package has been prepared, explaining the changes in more detail including the rationale and implications for pleasure boaters. The package is available from the Public Information Centre (416) 323-4321.

TREAT YOUR CHILD TO A NOVEL EXPERIENCE. EXPLORE YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY!

If it's true that the best things in life are free, then certainly your public library should be counted among them.

After all, where else can one come face to face with a fire-breathing dragon, take a journey into outer space or discover rare, tropical birds in a single afternoon...without spending a dime!

By introducing your young child to his or her local library and all it has to offer, you can help instill a love of books that will last a lifetime.

Next time you hear the familiar refrain, "Mommy, I don't have anything to do!", remember there's always something to discover at the library.

New scholarships offered

Canada must have an adequate supply of scientific and engineering expertise in the years ahead to ensure continued industrial competitiveness. Accordingly, the federal government is providing Canada Scholarships to encourage more top students to pursue undergraduate degrees in the natural sciences and engineering.

With more than 2,500 new Canada Scholarships being awarded each year, there will be up to 10,000 active Canada scholars receiving up to $20 million in scholarship funding when the program reaches maturity. These scholarships are awarded annually to outstanding students entering full-time undergraduate studies in eligible natural sciences, engineering and related disciplines, with a minimum of 50 percent of these scholarships being awarded to women.

Canada Scholarships are worth $2,000 per year and, subject to continued first-class academic achievement,

Report from Ottawa

With Bill Scott, MP

are renewable for up to four years, for a maximum value of $8,000.

The deadline for applying for a Canada Scholarship is June 20th.

For more information on the Canada Scholarships Program, contact your guidance counsellor, university awards office, or The Canada Scholarships Program Awards Division, Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, 151 Slater Street, Ottawa, Ontario, K1P 5N1.

Reminder:

Every year at this time, beneficiaries of the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS) and Spouse's Allowance receive applications for renewal of their benefits.

Old Age Security (OAS) pensioners with limited or no income are entitled to this benefit. The GIS benefit is included each month with the OAS payment. Because the GIS is based on the previous year's net income, individuals must apply annually.

In addition, spouses of pensioners between the ages of 60 and 64 may qualify for the Spouse's Allowance based on the combined income of the couple. A Widowed Spouse's Allowance is also available for all low-income widowed persons aged 60 to 64. Again, to receive this benefit, they must apply annually.

Acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of February 17 to February 23.

February 18, 6 mm rain, 4.2 pH, from Southern Ontario and Northern Ohio.

February 19, 8 mm rain, 4.2 pH, from Southern Ontario and Northern Ohio.

February 20, 1 cm snow, 3.9 pH, from Michigan and Southern Iowa.

February 21, 1 mm mixed rain and snow, 4.2 pH, from Lake Huron and Michigan.

February 22, 2 cm snow, 4.5 pH, from Northern Ontario.

February 23, 2 cm snow, 4.5 pH, from Southern Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

The war reveals our true nature

For the past weeks, most of us have been glued to radios and television sets and thinking about war.

In the United States, President George Bush and the media have invoked the name of Hitler in reference to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. The name of the Nazi leader immediately conjures images of a brutal butcher bent on genocide with weapons of terror.

It misses the point. A more appropriate name would have been Frankenstein. We have to remember that Frankenstein was the doctor who applied all of the powers of science to concoct an improved kind of being, only to create a monster.

Like modern-day Frankensteins, politicians, businessmen and military leaders, have generated the frightening figure that Hussein has become. They

by David Suzuki

armed him to the teeth with the most advanced inventions of military science and technology.

The United States, Britain, France, West Germany and the Soviet Union attempted to impose their political sphere on Iraq while amassing enormous profits from the sales of killing machines. And, like Dr. Frankenstein, they begat a horrifying man who is no longer predictable or controllable. It is even more appalling to realize that armed despots like Saddam have been created all over the world by the merchants of death.

Television reveals that like little boys, our political and military leaders are enthralled with their deadly toys--cruise missiles, nerve gas, patriot rockets, laser-guides "smart" bombs, stealth bomber.

The horror of the destructive power and dexterity of modern weaponry becomes amplified by the realization that those who will decide how to use this arsenal--Hussein, Bush, Brian Mulroney--are just human beings.

In spite of our great scientific advantages and technological prowess, the people attempting to control this power, possess the same minds and emotions of our Stone Age ancestors.

"K" FLOAT SERVICE

ONE CALL DOES IT ALL

$2,000,000 spent every minute

(from page 24)

Each of us sees the world through the rigid lenses of our personal background molded by heredity, experience and culture. Saddam, Bush and Mulroney have unprecedented might at their fingertips, yet each will respond to an incident from radically different perceptions. Depending on whether an event is seen as the "will of God", "work of the devil", or "act of a madman", the response will be drastically different. It is crazy to arm mere creatures as human beings with such destructive potential.

As we witness the incredible array of military personnel and armaments poised around the Persian Gulf, consider the staggering cost of war.

In times of peace, close to $2 million are spent globally on the military every minute. The Worldwatch Institute in Washington, D.C., estimates that a mere 15 per cent ($150 billion) of the annual world military budget would save the planet from environmental collapse.

Yet governments continue to plead poverty as the excuse for ignoring environmental destruction. The U.S., with disastrously skewed priorities, spend $300 on the military for every $1 on the environment. Even Canada invests $14 on national defence for every environmental dollar.

Only a fraction of the global defence budget would provide money to reduce national debt, forgive foreign loans, purchase wilderness, reduce pollution and increase aid to poor countries.

It is the misdirection of intellectual effort that is our greatest tragedy.

Last year, The Nature of Things broadcast a program called Vietnam: After the Fire, which looked at the environmental repercussions of the Indochina war.

The scale and the scope of the weaponry used to assault that tiny country showed our species at its most imaginative--in the invention of ways to kill and destroy--with staggering long term environmental and human costs.

Vietnam's countryside is still pocked and scarred with the craters of millions of bombs while soil remains poisoned by massive spraying of defoliants. One of Southeast Asia's richest tropical rain forests has been transformed into a barren desert while malformed babies and diseased adults continue to pay for a war two decades later. What a perverted way to use the resourceful genius of human intellect.

Faced with an ecological crisis on the scale of nuclear war, we still chose to expend our money, technology and lives to kill and destroy. And so like Mary Shelley's tragic character, Dr. Frankenstein, our leaders, with all of the best intentions, end up fighting the brute they themselves have made.

Furniture factory fined

A Lindsay court has fined Swedfurn Canada Ltd. $200,000 on 12 charges related of solvent emissions and improper wood-burning and waste storage practices at its wood furniture manufacturing plant in Fenelon Falls.

The court found that the company installed a wood-burning unit in December 1988 which emitted smoke and odors. Before contacting the Ministry of Environment, residents complained directly to the company about smoke emissions from the unit, as well as odors from solvents and other wastes stored on its property. The company took no effective action to improve the situation.

The ministry notified the company that a Certificate of Approval was required for the wood-burning unit. The court found that Swedfurn operated the equipment without approval for 31 days after the notification. The company was fined $2,000 for each day, as well as $10,000 for installing the unit without approval.

The company was also fined $12,500 on each of eight charges related to smoke and odor emissions from the plant.

It was also found that the company had stored hazardous wastes—such as solvents, lacquer and varnish—on its property without a Certificate of Approval. These wastes were stored in drums; some were leaking. There was surface water nearby.

The company was fined $25,000 for illegal storage of wastes and $2,500 for storing the wastes longer than three months without notifying the ministry. While the company was registered as a generator of hazardous wastes, it submitted no storage reports to the ministry.

Company president Bjorn

Foke Alfredsson was fined a total of $5,000 in the case.

The company pleaded guilty to all 12 charges. Mr. Alfredsson pleaded guilty to six charges related to smoke and odor discharges and storing hazardous wastes longer than three months.

IMPROVING YOUR ODDS AGAINST
CANADA'S #1 KILLER.

Minden Branch 636

The Royal Canadian Legion

wish to inform our communities that we are proud of our Canadian Forces serving in the Persian Gulf. We fully support them and the job they are doing.

By our mounting yellow ribbons on the Canadian flag poles at the County Cairn, County Offices, the offices of Anson, Hindon and Minden and Stanhope Township, the Ministry of Natural Resources, the Ontario Hydro and at our branch we are saying to the Canadians there "may peace soon prevail, the tyranny of war cease and you come home safely to Canada when your job is done."

We sincerely believe these are also the sympathies of the majority of Canadians.

AT REST

EVERSON, BEATRICE MABLE (BEA) - peacefully at Haliburton Hospital, on Tuesday, February 26, 1991, in her 60th year. Beloved wife of Bill, dear mother of Ken and his wife Leslie of Newmarket, Kim and her husband Tim Sharpless of Ingoldsby, loving grandmother of Kristen, Tracey and Melissa. Dear sister of Gertrude, Cecil and his wife Helen and predeceased by Mildred. Dear daughter-in-law of Lillian Everson and sister-in-law of Eric and his wife Pat.

Resting at the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home, Minden, Thursday, March 7, 1991, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the Ingoldsby United Church for Funeral Service on Friday, March 8, 10 a.m. Spring Interment Ingoldsby Cemetery.

Memorial Donations to the Canadian Cancer Society or to the Ingoldsby United Church would be appreciated.

IN MEMORIAM

BAGSHAW: In loving memory of brother, Thomas - February 26, 1950; brother, Alick - February 27, 1989; mother, Annie - January 5, 1966; and father, Thomas - December 17, 1968.

A tear slowly falls
Another takes its place.
Old memories come back
Of another time and place
When we were all together
And all was fine.

Sadly missed by Clara, Alvin & family.

IN MEMORIAM

MINTZ, MERVAL - In loving memory of Merval Mintz who passed away February 28, 1990.

This day comes with sad regret,
It brings back a day, we cannot forget.

You passed away without a goodbye,
But memories of you will never die.

Our hearts still ache without you,
Our eyes shed many a tear,
God only knows how we miss you,
As this ends the first year.

Dearly loved and ever remembered, Dad.
